PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS

The many changes in education have been graphically recorded in the past issues of Centorama. This year's publication will have special meanings to all students at Sarnia Central. The inauguration of the semester system has introduced many students from other secondary schools in Lambton County to the fellowship and warmth of our school. The many pictures and pictorials will serve mementos of accomplishments, friendships and the life that is unique to Central.

I would congratulate the editorial staff of Centorama for an excellent edition and history of 1974-75, another "Year of the Centaur".

CLASS OF '74

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS FALL '74

Mr. Gawinski, platform guests, fellow graduates, parents and friends.

Here we are, November 16, 1974. To most people it might be a day just like many others, but to those of us here tonight, it is very special. This one day marks not only an end, but also a beginning. Tonight is the joining link between our past and our future.

Our past. It seems strange to make Central a part of our past, that which is over. I am certain that when we walked down these halls again tonight it seemed as if we had left just yesterday. The decorations, with the theme of "Do you remember when....?" have brought the memories flooding back to us. To many of the parents and friends here tonight perhaps some of the quotes and slogans have little meaning, but to us, the graduates, they sum up our years here at Central.

I know that when I looked at the foyer bulletin board tonight, I remembered things I had not thought of in a long time: snowball fights in the portables, Initiation Day with diapers, pigtailed, and freckles, athletic championships one after the other, dances, the Mardi Gras, April Melodies, One Night Stand and Encore, Christmas assemblies, "Oliver!" and the "Music Man", French trips to the Quebec Winter Carnival, band trips to Mexico and Europe, Ugliest Boy Contests, chocolate bar drives, food fights in the cafeteria, and, of course classes and exams.

We shall never let go of our memories. Each time we look back, the piles of homework will be higher, the teachers will have more idiosyncracies, and the athletes will be more outstanding. We will never cease to enjoy reminiscing about these years at Central, when, by chance, we meet an old classmate.

To borrow some words from Jim Croce, "Memories are our friends' they take us to places that we thought we'd never see again." Memories should be our friends but not our masters. Now is the time to look ahead to what our future holds for us. For the past few years, possibly the most meaningful in our lives, we have gathered the ideas of our parents and our teachers. We are grateful to them for being there when we needed them. We have watched, listened, and learned. Now we must use our knowledge to form our ideas, build our own lives. Soon we will be the "older generation". We will be the teachers', we will be the parents. Tonight is the halfway mark. We are crossing the fine line between a child and an adult.

Only a few minutes remain in this evening's programme. The conclusion of the ceremonies here tonight also marks the conclusion of our life at Central. Our leaving inspires a certain sadness, yet there is a certain joy as well. We trust in the future; our hope for success in all our endeavours carries us on.

Parents, teachers, graduates, I am sure we will always be glad our paths crossed at Central, and I know that, whatever happens to us, we will always be joined by that precious bond of memories.

STUDENT LIFE

FROSH WEEK

As I look up from bended knee
Now I'll tell you what I see,
A wise and Perfect Grade 13
Who's always kind and never mean.

THE GREAT PIGSKIN PIZZA CONTEST

Pizza was the prize for the home forms who bought the most football tickets during the season.

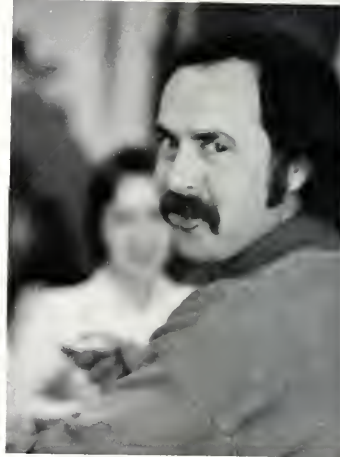

4F was behind all this and pizza-lovers everywhere salute you.

BOTTOM: Farida Rabi, Leisa Hungle, Audrey Morrissan.

LUNCH

Lunch periods this year were longer than they have ever been due to the semester system. And, for those who could not go home, the Loafer's Club made sure we had lots of entertainment.

But, on those days when there was no such entertainment, we just hung around the foyer, did homework, or read one of the many varieties of magazines the library has to offer.

LOAFERS

VARIETY NIGHT

Jazz dancing, strip poker, singing and comedy acts were all part of Central's Variety Night and the audiences thought it was great.

CHRISTMAS

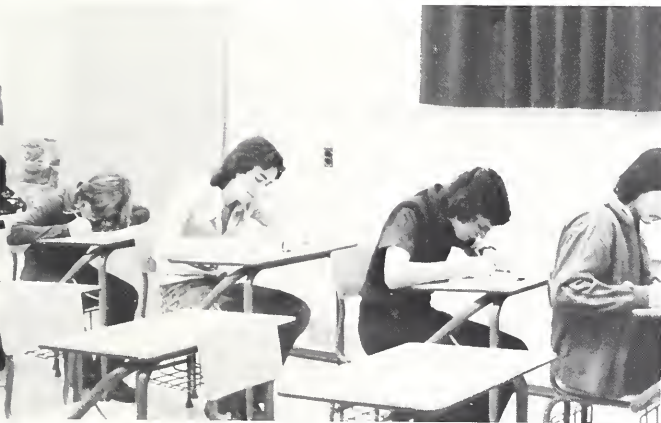

The round, jovial Santa MacMillan visited again this year with his bag full of all kinds of goodies for the leaving staff and all kinds of 'HO HO's' for the students.

LEGS CONTEST

All the girls found Jeff Rockwoods legs to be the sexiest, this year and although Mr. Huerter has a sexy pose himself, he only came in second.

EXAMS

Exams were a real pain in the pencil again this year and to make matters worse, they made us write two sets.

WINTER CARNAVAL

The Winter Carnaval was a first for Central this year and very successful. Under the direction of our fearless leader, John Girdlestone, close to 1,000 helium filled balloons were sent up by the same number of students to officially begin the carnival activities.

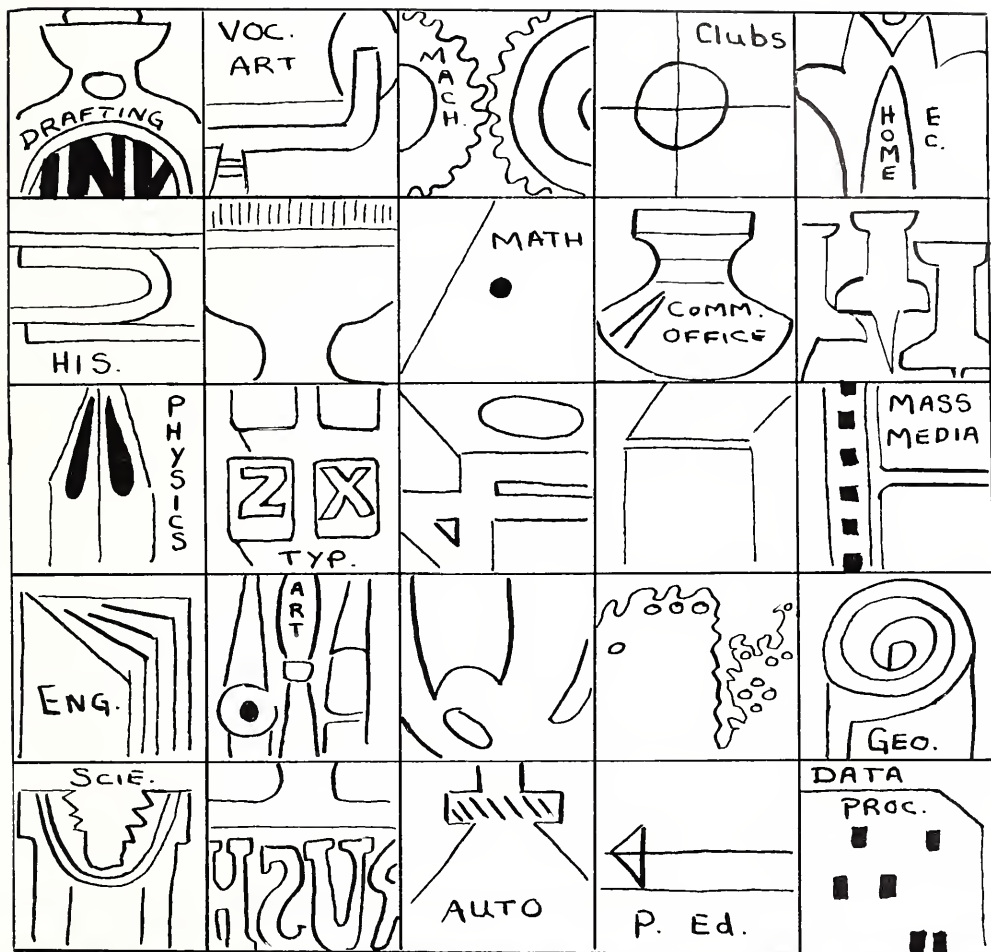

Among the many activities were the sleigh race, in which our 'heavy' homeroom teachers were pulled across the soccer field by the students. A pie eating contest, sponsored by Mr. Dell's home form, ended in a pie fight among the contestants and a pancake breakfast sponsored by the Pro-Art group was a great success with Musica adding entertainment.

We hope that this Carnaval will continue in the future.

Vicki Smith.

BANDS

The Brass Ensemble has proven, once again, their musical abilities through the interpretation of their classical repertoire.

The Semester System seems to have hit the Concert Band the hardest, with the senior Musicians concentrating more on their studies than the band. Our new director, Mr. Crouch, expects much more participation, next year, from the senior members of Concert Band II.

BOOSTER CLUB

The booster club really did their job, this year. They constantly reminded us that Central is, and always will be, Number 1. These artists contributed a great deal to the spirit, which was very much in evidence, at our games this year.

CAMERA CLUB

The camera club was busy as usual this year. The yearbook staff has a special thank-you, though, for John Walker and John Girdlestone. Without their help, we would be without a yearbook.

The making of the yearbook was a hard and time consuming job for those few people involved. Out of all this time and effort we hope that we have put together a meaningful memoir of the events of 1974-75 year.

CHESS CLUB

STUDENTS' COUNCIL

The Student's Council Executive worked very hard this year. John Girdlestone, our fearless president, organized dances, Winter Carnaval, and many other events, all of which proved to be complete successes.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Despite the poor response to the Students' Council elections, I feel that the school spirit has remained high. The interested students, who are always outnumbered, have managed to get many activities off the ground. Central's first Winter Carnival got many people involved, both students and teachers.

Central's transition to the semester system and long lunch hours went quite smoothly thanks to the B.A.A., G.A.A., and Loafer's Club. The activities and presentations planned by these groups involved a great number of students who would not have had the chance in the old system.

In Council's activities this year, we have tried to involve as many clubs and students as possible. It is only by this way that we can let the students know that their council is working for them, through them. The council is not the six people on the executive; it is every student who is concerned at all about what he or she is getting out of Central.

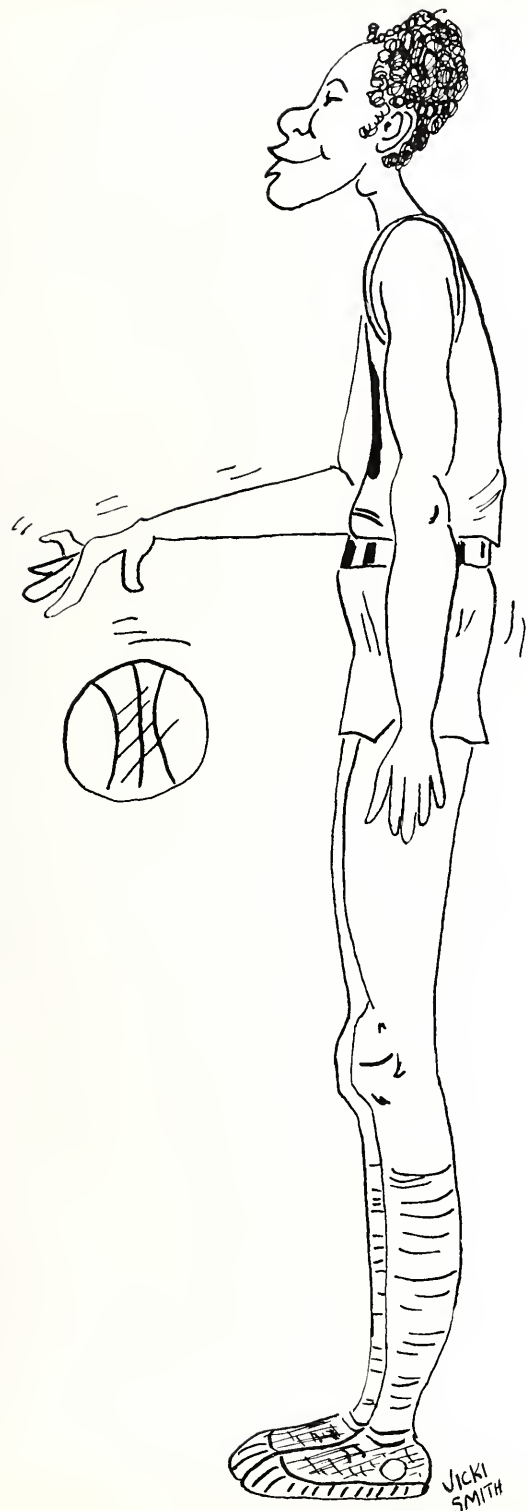

We say that Central is number One; we know that Central is number One, but the only way we stay that way is if we care.

PRESIDENT 1974-75

John Girdlestone

SPORTS

SENIOR FOOTBALL

With only five veterans back from last year, our senior team was in store for a rebuilding year.

In exhibition play, Central lost one game and won one game and the regular season ended with two wins and three losses. The team defeated Northern and SCITS in the last two games, only to tie Northern for fourth place. The game, unfortunately, was lost to Northern in the quarter-final.

Next season, the Centaurs should have sixteen starters returning with the predictions for next season vastly improved.

The Junior Football Team worked very hard this year under the leadership of Coach, Mr. Thrasher. It was a disappointing season, but we are sure they will make a great come-back next year.

DAYBREAK

The horizon was streared with dawn's brilliance. The mist rose slowly from the green valley. One could already tell that the day would be hot, scorchingly hot. The sunlight was reflected by the white farmhouse. Its windowpanes were pink with the newness of day. The silver roof of the barn stood out against the fresh grass. Then, from nowhere it seemed, a young boy appeared. He was dressed in levis and a faded old shirt. His feet were bare. He ran swiftly across the fields and jumping over the hillside fence, disappeared into the meadow.

He was free.

Evangeline Bull.

What's In A Name?

Is it true that Isaac Newton said?
That is an apple on my head
And if it fell from yonder tree
I think I'll call it gravity.

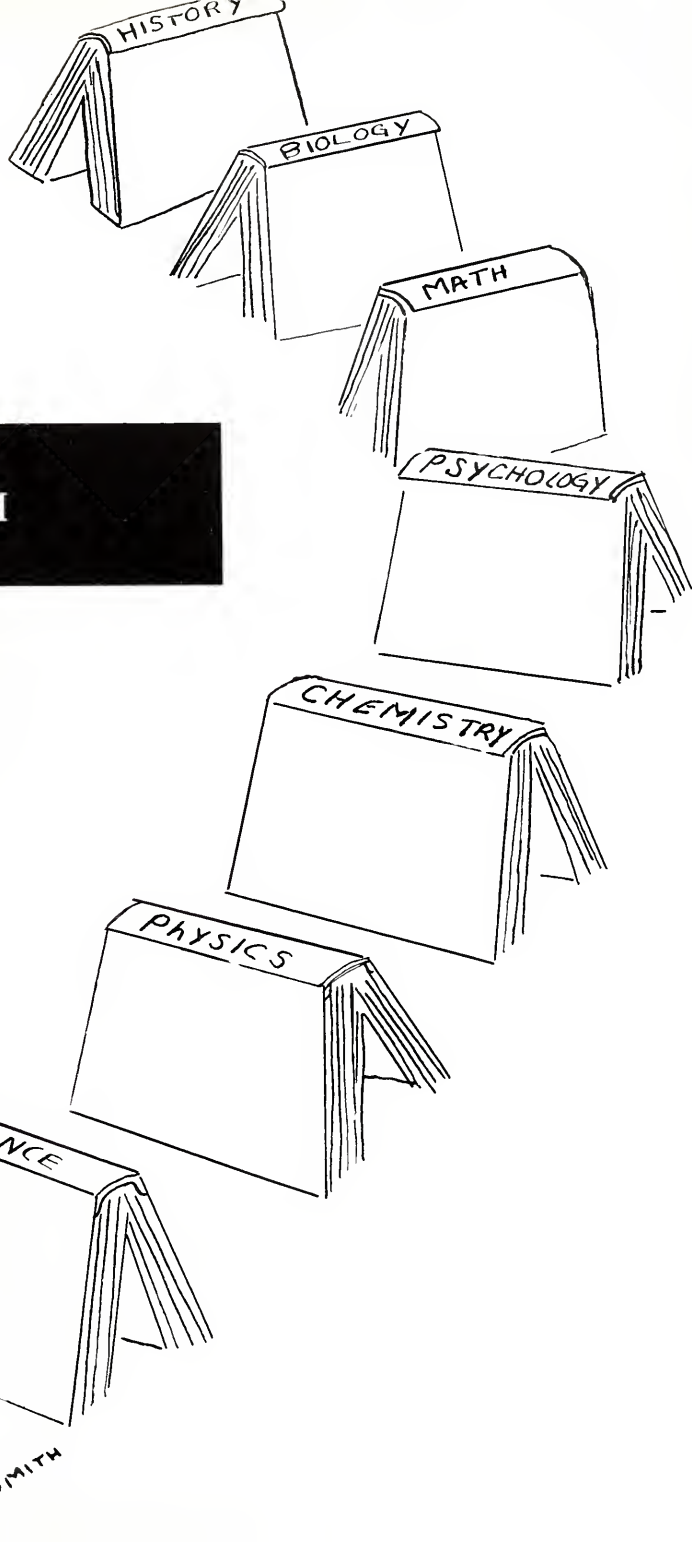

And did Einstein say at last
The speed of light is very fast
So after thinking anxiously
I've called it relativity.

And was it Rongten who observed
A ray of which he never heard
And so, as if to put a hex
He took the ray and called it X

Each of these men they found a name
For what was their claim to fame
And if this poem does that with me
Its name shall be The Odyssey.

ENGLISH

Never be satisfied with mere superficial meaning they counsel us. No, dig deeper for the mystic, social, physical, spiritual, sociological, psychological and psychosomatic meanings. Being guided through the complexities of our language by the mellifluous larynx of Mr. Coombs is a pure joy. Your prodigious efforts on our behalf are hereby applauded.

GEOGRAPHY

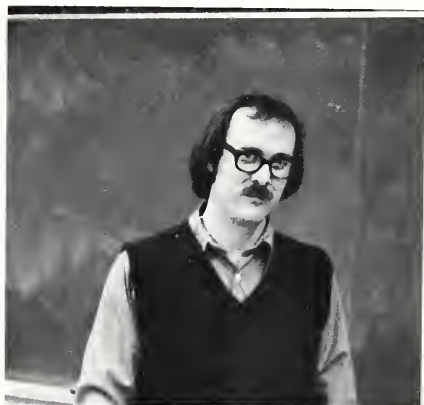

Did you know that Atlas has been replaced by Mr. Aurich, that Mr. Stevenson is really the sandman and that Mr. Cook has a real job keeping his act in top condition after the 'dynamic duo' have finished?

Mr. George—welcome! If you can answer this question, you are accepted as a certified geography teacher...What happens when a man jumps off a mountain, at 3,000 ft. elevation, in the Himalayas, in a sub-tropical climate, with an annual precipitation of three inches, an annual crop yield of sixty barrels of strawberries and gophers underground????

And, of course, we all miss Mr. Merchant, active in Track and Field, a fine teacher, and all-round nice guy. We wish him well in the future.

HISTORY

Essays, seminars, essays, seminars! The history department is notorious for this sort of harrassment. But, after six straight years of togetherness, this staff can still make history a very worthwhile credit.

Come to the Tropic of Calculus, where long, lush, equations delight, rays penetrate your mind, and the alphabet is not used to spell!

MUSIC

The Music Department continues to be a favourite among the students at Central. Mr. Timmermans and Mr. Crouch, who makes his first year at Central, are entirely devoted to the wants and needs of their pupils. Besides the Concert Band I, Concert Band II, Stage Band, Brass Ensemble and the O.F.Y. group Musica, Mr. Timmermans has started a Professional Artists group which is made up of the more talented musicians at Central. Its first year of existence has proved very successful. Mr. Crouch, although new at the job, as music conductor of the Concert Band I and teacher has proved to be an excellent addition, and has already established a Glee Club.

This years Phys. Ed. department is in top condition. Unfortunately, through illness, we have lost a longstanding staff member—Mr. Latramouille. But, we have gained Mr. Jackson who has proved to be excellent in his new position. Rest your wings. You beat toohard against the walls you think are there.

You suspect a trap, a snare,
a spy, a jailer or a guard,
a watch upon you everywhere.
Fall back upon yourself and find to your surprise that you are free!

You are as you want to be,
soaring to the heights of mind,
zeniths for your destiny!
Delusions are surrounding you.
Evade the fancied grasp. Deny existence of the bar, the tie.
Sense the distance that is true.
Singing, know that you can fly!

THE ENEMY

The odour of death,
Clings in the air.
While the noise of gunfire.
Frightens and scares.

And beside the roads,
Dead bodies lie,
Caused by the enemy,
On the other side.

Fighting constantly,
Day and night.
No time to rest
Just fight, fight, fight.

Then I heard,
My brother cry.
I turned around,
And saw him die.

The Space Age

The space age is here, like a reflection in an ancient mirror. You ride to work each day in your rocket "Model A". Our problem now is inflation and without serious contemplation, this could be our destination. A crash diet is prescribed for our whole earth, so the government tries to find an answer but now what is it worth? So people heed my warning though it may be out of date, eat all you can today cause tomorrow may be too late. They found a solution to end the pollution, a $500 dollar fine settled that. The solution to the energy crisis is simple. No more cars, no more jets pollution fighters stamped out cigarettes. So without busses, boats and trains there's no need for gas, but one problem remains. What do we do with the gas that is left? Take a match, make a scratch, no more gas.

We carry on with tradition, to with nutrition we don't need any of that. Children now have equivalent rights just as women and men alike. Transportation is easy on a jet propelled motor bike. We no longer have kings and queens, we dress in what we like: "mostly jeans". Well the future you see is too different for me, so I guess I'm just too slow, for back through the mirror and time I must go.

ALL OVER NOW

Amanda Harris looked at her kitchen for the last time. She remembered the warm, cozy evenings spent playing cards with Jack and Jimmy. How they had laughed.

Jimmy was such a tease, he played jokes on everyone. He had a way with him, the rascal. No one could resist his freckled face or angelic smile, he was loved and spoiled by all. He could "charm the birds", as Mrs. Cornell said. A perfect son, born to do great things, Jimmy held her heart in his hand.

Amanda and Jack had given their son all they had, their future was tied up in him. Jimmy was perfect, could do no wrong, and as a consequence received everything he asked for.

Amanda recalled his high school days when he was the heartthrob of every girl in school. He always had a swarm of them around him, giggling and blushing at his jokes or flattery. Amanda remembered Janey Kane.

Jimmy took a liking to her when they were in the twelfth grade. After a brief pursuit, Jimmy won her and they were never apart. Janey Kane. Could she ever forget the day they told her? Jimmy was going to marry her and take a job in town "on account of the baby," Janey explained. Amanda bitterly opposed it and begged her son to forget "that girl".

Jimmy, the freckled, tousle-haired marvel, married and moved away. His parents never heard from him. Jack had died in the spring and now Amanda was staring at her kitchen one last time with tears pouring down her cheeks.

She saw a sweet, beloved face gaze up at her and say, "Mommy, you're the tops."

A hand gently tugged her arm. "Come on, then, Mrs. Harris. Try to forget, dear. You'll meet lots of nice people at Huron View."

The nurse led the sobbing woman away.

The Paradise of the East

Castle Peak City, a city in the Far East, is a very famous and beautiful place, and there are about one million people living there. The city was once called "The Paradise of the East". Nowadays in the city you can see no beauty but only rubbish in the streets, and you can hear no other news, but only robbery and murmuring.

How do the people in the city live, then? They live just the same way as other people in the other places do. But there is one thing we must notice: the people in this city are probably the most selfish and disunited people in the world. They will never care for or help others but themselves and they only try their best to avoid getting into others' business or troubles.

Among all the people in Castle Peak City, Tony Cheung is one of the best examples of the characteristics and nature of the people. Because he runs a store in Candy Street, he knows nearly everybody in that street; but still they can't help each other.

Every weekend morning, Tony has to go to the Holy Street to get some things there for the store. Holy Street is a place very near to his store and he always walks there by passing through a quiet road on which people seldom walk. It is for this reason that he witnesses many robberies here. But he just passes by—seeing nothing.

However, an accident happens that will surely change him a great deal. That day was Saturday, as usual, he took his way through that quiet road with a little money in his pocket. On the way when he was returning home, he saw three men struggling together. Then all of a sudden he heard one of them shout in a loud voice and then fall down on the ground in pain. Two men picked up something and ran at full speed towards Tony. He stared at them with fear in his eyes, and the robbers also gave him a quick look in return. They both saw the other's face.

After they had gone a long way off, he was still standing there thinking whether he should help the man or just prevent himself from getting into any trouble because he had seen the robbers clearly and they also had seen him. After wavering for a moment, he decided to act as usual—not to get into troubles.

When he went back to the store, he told his wife what had happened. After hearing what had happened, the wife praised her husband that he had made a clever decision.

The following fourth evening when the store was about to be closed, two men walked in asking for some cigarettes. Tony was upstairs at that time and only his wife was in the store. When she had given them the cigarettes, one of the men suddenly took out a long, sharp knife from his pocket. The woman was too afraid to cry out at that time.

In no more than two minutes the robbers had got what they wanted and were about to go. When Tony's wife saw that they were about to go, she then shouted with all her voice. Having heard the screaming, Tony immediately went downstairs just in time to catch sight of a man with a knife in his hand. He knew that his store was robbed.

In order to get back his money, he took up a steel rod and ran towards the robbers. When they turned back to him, he was surprised to find that they were the same robbers that he saw on the weekend morning. Before he could reach his steel rod to them, he had already fallen down on the street with a knife in his body. There were many people in the street at that time, but they just acted as he did that morning.

And be Myself.

EDITOR

The editing of the '74-75 Yearbook has, finally, been completed; but with a noted lack of participation. This is a problem in many of the school's extra-curricular activities. It poses a special problem, though, for the Centorama Club, for the staff must be present at all activities which occur during the course of the school year. This is an impossible task for two or three people.

This year has been one of many changes and has seen a gradual increase in the spirit and involvement of the student. It has been a year to remember and I hope that the pages of this book will help to serve as a reminder.
